OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

The Fed finally raised its rate from 0.25% to 0.50% that gave the market an opportunity to take profits as prices of the dollar bond market rallied, pushing prices higher.

The US Federal Reserve finally raised its federal funds target rate to 0.25%- 0.5% from zero -0.25% previously. The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) noted that further rate increases will be gradual and will follow the pace of the economy.

The FOMC expects the fed funds target rate to rise toward 1.5% and 2.5% by the end of 2016 and 2017, respectively.

Financial markets continue to face strong headwinds from rising U.S. interest rates, strong US dollar, global slowdown and the May Presidential elections. These could create continued volatility and uncertainty in the near term
