OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Equities ended strongly in December as the PSEi convincingly broke from its more than 2.5-year resistance level. The index ended the year at an all-time high of 8,552, 25% higher than previous year's closing. But before this blockbuster ending, investors had to first endure a falling market which brought the PSEi near the 8,000 level. PLDT and Globe were among those which suffered badly on fears regarding the potential entry of a 3rd telco player. Meanwhile, GT Capital, Semirara Mining & Power Corp, DMCI Holdings, and Universal Robina experience wild price swings over concerns regarding the impact of the new taxes on corporate earnings. Later it turned out that the fears were overblown since the tax impact will not be as substantial as initially estimated. As a result, most affected counters recovered strongly which helped push the market to new heights.
